

An Unforgettable Stay in Georgetown Washington DC

No tour of Washington D.C., the capital of the United States of America, is complete without a stay in Georgetown. Founded in 1751, the lively city of Georgetown is located along the Potomac River waterfront, in the Northwest quadrant of Washington D.C. Georgetown is the place to visit and will suit all types of travelers, from holidaymakers and adventure travelers to business and long term travelers.

Georgetown is a city that offers a wealth of attractions and that is why the best way to travel around Georgetown is on foot. With this purpose in mind, it is best to choose a well-located hotel within walking distance to exciting shopping (find unique boutiques as well as international brands), delectable dining (over 100 restaurants available representing over 50 ethnicities), vibrant nightlife (bars, lounges, low-key hangouts, jazz clubs), events (parties, street wide festivals, trunk shows, wine tastings, and book signings) and of course, magnificent historic landmarks.

Georgetown historic landmarks deserve a paragraph of their own. The city of Georgetown is home to many magnificent historic landmarks including but not limited to:

Canal Square Building (former home of the Tabulating Machine Company)

The City Tavern Club (oldest commercial structure in Washington D.C.)

Dumbarton Oaks (former home of John C. Calhoun, U.S. vice president)

The Forrest-Marbury House (where George Washington met with local land owners to propose the acquisition of the land needed to establish the new capital city, currently embassy of Ukraine)

Healy Hall (flagship building at the main campus of Georgetown University)

The Oak Hill Cemetery (historic cemetery and botanical garden)

The Old Stone House (oldest standing building in Washington D.C.).

Contrary to popular belief, a first-choice hotel in Georgetown is not expensive, with per night prices starting at USD $160. If you find the right hotel, your stay will be like having you own apartment in Georgetown, but without the exhausting housework. Look for a spacious living room, a complete kitchen and a comfortable bedroom and you will be on your way to an unforgettable stay.

Let's take a suites hotel by way of example and see what some of their features are:

Living rooms with wired and wireless high speed internet access, a 42" flat panel HDTV, an ergonomic work desk chair, enough space for small business meetings, on demand movies, and a queen size sleeper sofa.

Kitchens that allow you to prepare a quick dinner for you and your friends or family, with all dishware provided, or simply have a nice cup of coffee before visiting the breakfast room. And of course, forget about washing the dishes.

Bedrooms with 2 line phone with voicemail, clock radio with iPhone hook-up, marble bath with separate vanity, and a 32" flat panel TV.

Promotions and specials such as last minute travel deals, packages for the whole family, and discounts for extended stay guests.

Extra amenities for extended stay guests (fully equipped full sized kitchens, complimentary deluxe continental breakfast, on site fitness and business center, coffee and tea replenished daily, 24 hour front desk and concierge service, among many others).

Website with full information on the hotel and an online reservation system that allows you to check availability and make your reservation in a snap.

Toll free reservation line.

As you can see, Georgetown caters to all types of travelers, and if you choose the right hotel, your stay will surely be an unforgettable one.
